

TARCC loves to read and so will you!

The most important predictor of reading success is interactively reading aloud to a child. The following ideas help parents think of questions to stimulate their child's thinking and develop ongoing comprehension skills with a shared story.

Let TARCC help to improve your child's reading!

Tell-me - Ask ths child to tell you about characters or events in the story. "Tell me about the little girl," or "What might happen next in the story?"

Ask-questions - Ask the child any of the 5w questions-who, what, when where, and why to help the child recall specific information.

Retell - Stop reading the story periodically and have the child retell what as happened thus far in the story. This guides the child in remembering events and ideas.

Connect - Have the child connect events in the story to his or her own life.

Complete - Have the child fill in the blank questions, such as "The little mouse ran into his _ _ _ _

Copyright
Curriculum Department
Utah State Office of Education

TARCC loves to read and so will you!

The most important predictor of reading success is interactively reading aloud to a child. The following ideas help parents think of questions to stimulate their child's thinking and develop ongoing comprehension skills with a shared story.

Let TARCC help to improve your child's reading!

Tell-me - Ask ths child to tell you about characters or events in the story. "Tell me about the little girl," or "What might happen next in the story?"

Ask-questions - Ask the child any of the 5w questions-who, what, when where, and why to help the child recall specific information.

Retell - Stop reading the story periodically and have the child retell what as happened thus far in the story. This guides the child in remembering events and ideas.

Connect - Have the child connect events in the story to his or her own life.

Complete - Have the child fill in the blank questions, such as "The little mouse ran into his _ _ _ _

Copyright
Curriculum Department
Utah State Office of Education

TARCC loves to read and so will you!

The most important predictor of reading success is interactively reading aloud to a child. The following ideas help parents think of questions to stimulate their child's thinking and develop ongoing comprehension skills with a shared story.

Let TARCC help to improve your child's reading!

Tell-me - Ask ths child to tell you about characters or events in the story. "Tell me about the little girl," or "What might happen next in the story?"

Ask-questions - Ask the child any of the 5w questions-who, what, when where, and why to help the child recall specific information.

Retell - Stop reading the story periodically and have the child retell what as happened thus far in the story. This guides the child in remembering events and ideas.

Connect - Have the child connect events in the story to his or her own life.

Complete - Have the child fill in the blank questions, such as "The little mouse ran into his _ _ _ _ _ _ _ ."

Copyright
Curriculum Department
Utah State Office of Education